

Question

II. TIMELINE OF EVENTS BACKGROUND Morgan Michelle Myers, ("Myers") and Charles Dustin Myers, ("Plaintiff") were married on June 20, 2015, and have two daughters, C.R.M. and M.E.M, aged seven and nine. The evidence in this case will show that in early December of 2023, the entire family was blindsided by Myers' sudden announcement that she wanted a divorce from Plaintiff. REC. 717 The evidence will further show that Myers' reasoning for this divorce changes over time - beginning with how Plaintiff spoke to her, and then switches to abuse and sexual harassment, and allegations of drug abuse, claims that were only brought up in her initial pleadings. On December 12, 2023, Plaintiff discovered a large volume of text messages between Myers and two individuals identified as Debbie Price and Damen Kazlauskas of Fort Worth, Texas spanning between October 2022 and December 2023. REC. 254-714 In response to this discovery, Myers began to communicate with Defendant Daniel Kenneth Branthoover, a resident of Yukon, Oklahoma, who assisted her in the planning, drafting, traveling, and submitting of fraudulent documents to the 322nd District Court of Tarrant County designed to divest Plaintiff of his home and business operations. When these allegations were raised to the State, they failed to adjudicate them and violated the Plaintiff's constitutional rights when he was deprived of the guarantees of equal protection under the law and when he was not afforded due process before being deprived of his property. REC. 183. The central question is whether Defendants Munford, Kaitcer, Carter, and Baker are victims of the initial scheme - or willing participants in an expanded associate-in-fact enterprise that began in December of 2023 as the Myers-Branthrover enterprise. A. The Myers-Branthrover Enterprise 1. On December 14, 2023, Defendants Morgan Michelle Myers ("Myers") and Daniel Kenneth Branthoover ("Branthrover"), acting in concert and under deceptive pretenses, (REC. 1704), initiated text-message communications through which they formed and advanced a common plan and agreement. Over the weekend of December 15, 2023, they met in Yukon, Oklahoma, to further that plan (REC. 274-278). The deceptive text message from Defendant Branthoover claiming that he wanted to assist Plaintiff was following an attempt by Myers to receive an ex-parte order of protection from the 322nd District Court of Tarrant county, attempted on December 14, 2023 (REC. 78). B. Interstate Travel and Transfer 2. As part of their agreement, both Defendants planned to draft and submit an original petition for divorce and an affidavit of indigency to the 322nd District Court of Tarrant County, with the intended and foreseeable result of removing Plaintiff from his matrimonial residence at 6641 Anne Court, Watauga, Texas 76148—which also serves as his place of business for clients in the United States, Canada, and the United Kingdom that rely on his market data services (REC. 812 ¶ 16). 3. During Defendant Myers's interstate travel, she transferred the parties' marital funds into Defendant Branthoover's PayPal account in the amount of $1,576 (REC. 723). Those proceeds funded a second mobile phone (817-940-0852), listed on the fraudulent pleadings that Myers and Branthoover jointly prepared in Oklahoma, which Myers then carried from Yukon to Texas on December 17, 2023 (REC. 86; 99; 102; 107). C. Admissions 4. On December 16, 2023, Plaintiff reached out to

Branthroover and requested that the $1,576 be returned as they were needed for Christmas gifts for the children, and for business advertising expenses for his business. REC. 728-729. In response, defendant Branthoover admitted that the purpose of defendant Myers' visit was to help her prepare paperwork for divorce litigation and confirmed that the transfer of $1,576 did in fact occur. REC. 730. Plaintiff's bank statement from December 2023 further confirms this transaction. REC. 723. D. Post-submission Collaboration 5. On December 18, 2023, defendant Myers submitted the fraudulently prepared original petition for divorce, and an affidavit of indigency to the 322nd District Court of Tarrant County. After these documents were submitted, defendant Branthoover sent a text message to Plaintiff on December 19, 2023, at 5:50 P.M. CST, holding himself out to be defendant Myers' attorney, showing his involvement extends past the initial help in preparing the fraudulent documents. REC. 1712-1713 6. Four days later, on December 22, 2023, defendant Myers submitted another knowingly fraudulent application for protective to the 322nd District Court of Tarrant County claiming that family violence had occurred on December 18, 2023, supported by both an affidavit and unsworn declaration. REC. 108-109. E. Significant and Intentional Misrepresentations 7. On December 27 and December 28, 2023, respectively, the documents prepared by Myers with the assistance of Branthoover were served on Plaintiff via the U.S. Constable, and contained the following misrepresentations: i. That defendant Myers could not afford court costs; REC. 72, REC. 85-96 ii. That defendant Myers had an active order of protection against the Plaintiff with a finding of family violence that had occurred during the marriage; REC. 78 at 10 iii. That defendant Myers was financially responsible for the family vehicles, rent payments, utilities, and other household expenses, making herself appear as the primary breadwinner; REC. 92 iv. That defendant Myers would be harassed or abused if Plaintiff were given her newly acquired phone number that was obtained while in Oklahoma; REC. 81 at 15. v. That defendant Myers and Plaintiff ceased living together on December 1, 2023; REC. 74 at 4 vi. That family violence occurred on December 18, 2023, in the presence of the two Children. REC. 108-109. vii. That both family vehicles were defendant Myers' separate property acquired before marriage. REC. 79 at 11B F. Evidence to the Contrary 8. On the same day Defendant Myers claimed to be in an emergency requiring the Plaintiff's prompt removal from the home, she can be seen at the home with Plaintiff and the children in no state of emergency and also still cohabitating in the marital home. REC 1715. 9. Again, on December 29, 2023, Defendant Myers can be seen with Plaintiff at the family home, smiling and laughing with the children in no state of emergency and still collaborating with Plaintiff in the marital home. REC. 1735. 10. The citation for the application for protective order ordered Respondent to show cause as to why it should not issue with a hearing scheduled for January 16, 2024. REC. 118. 11. In response to extensive misrepresentation above, Plaintiff prepared an original answer, filed a motion to consolidate, and provided background information which alleged that defendant Myers was intentionally abusing the legal process. REC. 130-132. Plaintiff was ordered to show cause on January 16, 2024, regarding the protective order application. REC. 118 G. Inclement Weather and First Appearance 12. On January 15, 2024, the Tarrant County District Courts Facebook page sent out a notice informing the members of the public that the court would be closed on January 16, 2024, due to inclement weather. REC. 1202. 13. Unaware of the closure at the time, the parties appeared at the 322nd District Court of Tarrant County on January 16, 2024, and were met with a dark courtroom, with only one judge in the building at the time of their arrival – Defendant James Munford (“Munford”). 14. Defendant Munford summarily ordered the Plaintiff out of his home, inadvertently assisting the Myers-Branthrover associate-in-fact enterprise of achieving their primary goal in having the Plaintiff removed from his residence, despite the broader goal being to obtain a decree of divorce to permanently divest Plaintiff of his interests. REC. 183. 15. Defendant Munford’s initial order was baseless, made in the absence of any emergency, without a hearing, and disregarded the Plaintiff’s pleadings, telling Myers “you’re going to have to find evidence of family violence!” clearly aware that this order was made without any regard to the Plaintiff’s constitutional rights. 16. Defendant Jeffrey Kaitcer, (“Kaitcer”) walked into the courtroom late due to the inclement weather and turned the courtroom into a laughing matter as he began to joke with Defendant Munford, and instructed the parties to download the AppClose app for communication, and the matter was reset for January 22, 2024. There exists no record of this proceeding, only marked appearances on the docket. H. Reset #1 – January 22, 2024, Setting 17. At the January 22 reset hearing, the parties appeared only to have the case reset once more because defendant Myers allegedly retained the services of Defendant Cooper Carter, (“Carter”) in the lobby of the courthouse just moments before the hearing was scheduled to begin. No appearance can be traced to this setting by either party on the docket (REC. 1551), and once again, no hearing was held, and the case reset for a second time to February 1, 2024. REC. 186. 18. Kaitcer permitted attorney Dan Bacalis, Plaintiff’s prior attorney, to fill out the Associate Judge’s Report, and the parties never went before him as indicated by the case docket’s lack of appearance on this date by either party. I. Reset #2 – February 1, 2024, Setting 19. One day prior to the February 1 setting, both attorneys, Defendant Carter and Dan Bacalis, both amended the petition for divorce and counterpetition for divorce without the parties’ knowledge. (REC. 189, REC. 209) These amended documents were similar, submitted on the same day, and raised concerns for Plaintiff regarding his quality of representation. 20. At the February 1 setting, both parties were in the conference rooms outside of Defendant Kaitcer’s courtroom, when attorney Bacalis walks in holding a settlement agreement. When Plaintiff refused this option and requested that they go have a hearing before the judge. 21. This is when Bacalis stated, as witness affidavits corroborate, that he “knows this Judge and this is the best we can get.” and further stated “[w]e’ll be here all day. We can come back and change it later.” 22. Outraged by this response, Plaintiff paid very close attention to the settlement offer Bacalis was pressuring him to sign, and noticed the following provisions: A typed written Order conforming to this Report will follow within 20 days from the date this Report is signed. The Temporary Order shall be prepared by DAN BACALIS. Each attorney should approve the Order. The parties do not need to approve the Order. The attorney reviewing the proposed Order shall have five (5) days to do so. There are no ten (10) day letters. If an agreement is not reached, a Motion to Sign shall be filed and set within thirty (30) days from the signing of this Report. IT IS SO ORDERED (REC. 233) J. Termination of Counsel and the Emergency Motion 23. With the above provisions in mind, Plaintiff signed the document and immediately fired his attorney and provided notice to the court. REC. 221. By doing so, Plaintiff gained access back to the residency, invalidated the agreement, and was able to use the time back in the house to run damage control on his business operations while preparing to expose the Myers-Branthroover enterprise to the court via a MOTION TO RECONSIDER EVIDENCE AND VACATE TEMPORARY ORDERS, which was filed on February 9, 2024, within three business days of the February 1 agreed associate judge's report being served by the clerk. REC. 240 24. In this motion, it was specifically stated that: i. "I am seeking immediate court intervention to correct procedural errors and address the misuse of the legal system by the Petitioner." REC. 244 ii. "Particularly, Dan Branthroover became involved. He is the boyfriend of the Petitioner's Mother. Shortly thereafter, I received a notice from our joint bank account stating that $1,576 had just been withdrawn. As our bank statement for December 2023 will demonstrate - the transaction record shows the funds being transferred directly to Mr. Branthroover's PayPal account" REC. 245 iii. "The Petitioner's action of filing for divorce under an Affidavit of Inability to pay three days after transferring $1,576 to herself starkly contravenes the mandates set forth in Chapter 10, Section 10.001 of the Civil Practice and Remedies Code". REC 247 at B2 iv. "The Petitioner violated Chapter 10, Section 10.001 a second time within the same document when she intentionally elected to waive the 60-day waiting period claiming to have an active protective order against me that found family violence had occurred during our marriage." REC 247 at B3. v. "This suit was the second attempt by the Petitioner to have me removed from the home, which ultimately succeeded." REC 248 at D1 25. The motion went on to explain the factual pattern described up to this point, putting the court on notice of the key issues with provided exhibits which were duly served on Carter. In response to Plaintiff's motion, he received the first of just two email communications from Carter throughout the case's history, where she claimed she would be filing a counter motion when disclosing her availability for the hearing on Plaintiff's emergency motion. REC. 2794 No such countermotion was filed by Carter. K. Summary Judgment and Notice of Hearing 26. By February 22, no response had been filed by Carter, so Plaintiff filed a Partial Motion for Summary Judgment. REC. 758. Plaintiff also submitted a proposed parenting plan as Exhibit D. REC. 769. No response was ever received from Carter. 27. On February 27, 2024, Defendant Munford signed and issued a notice of hearing to the parties with the hearing set for March 14, 2024. REC. 776. L. Plaintiff's Notice to the Court and Defendant Myers' Self-Help Remedies 28. On March 3, 2024, Plaintiff notified the Court that he would not be leaving the home as it was not in the best interests of his children. REC. 782. 29. The following day, on March 6, 2024, while walking his daughters to school, Myers ran inside the family home, and locked him out of the marital residence, leaving a sign on the door that said "[y]ou should have been out by Saturday you are now locked out!" REC. 1748. 30. Plaintiff called local law enforcement to help him regain entry into the home, where mother produced the agreed associate judge's report signed on February 1, 2024, and used it as a means to block Plaintiff's entrance to the home. 31. To avoid further conflict, Plaintiff was escorted into the home where he was able to grab only his computer and a few clothes and went to Flower Mound to temporarily stay with his father until the time of the hearing on his emergency motion, scheduled for March 14, 2024, at 9:00 A.M. L. The Hearing On Plaintiff's Emergency Motion 32. On March 14, 2024, the parties arrived at the 322nd District Court, and on the way into the courtroom, defendants Myers and Carter could be seen in the conference room, quickly shuffling papers back and forth. 33. After checking in with the bailiff, Plaintiff turned around to see defendant Carter extending to him a document titled "Temporary Orders" that were the reduced version of the February 1 associate judge's report. REC. 888. 34. These orders, which were not prepared by Dan Bacalis, which were not agreed to by the parties, were reduced well outside of the 20-day requirement as ordered by the judge, and which were never filed with the clerk, stated the following misrepresentations: i. On February 1, 2024, the Court heard Petitioner's motion for temporary orders. ii. The parties have agreed to the terms of this order as evidenced by the signatures below. REC. 888. iii. The Court, after examining the record and the agreement of the parties and hearing the evidence and argument of counsel, finds that all necessary prerequisites of the law have been legally satisfied and that the Court has jurisdiction of this case and of all the parties. REC. 888. iv. The dates that the parties would have access to the family residence was altered, changing the date Plaintiff was supposed to leave from March 1, 2024, to March 20, 2024, and changing Myers' date of re-entry from March 1, 2024, to March 30, 2024, leaving a 10-day window where no one would occupy the residence. v. This modification was made to prevent Myers from being liable for illegally locking Plaintiff out of the home on March 6, 2024. 35. On the last page of the orders, Plaintiff's attorney who was terminated weeks earlier did not sign the document, and Plaintiff refused to sign the document for the forthcoming reasons: i. It claimed a hearing occurred on a motion which was never set for a hearing or served on the Plaintiff and doesn't exist on the docket. ii. It was prepared by defendant Carter, not Dan Bacalis. iii. The associate judge was presiding over a de novo request of his own prior report. iv. The matrimonial address was incorrect, as it stated "6641 Anns Court", rather than 6641 Anne Court. REC. 915, REC. 922 v. The orders were not in the best interests of the children. vi. Notwithstanding the Plaintiff's revocation of consent by filing the emergency motion, the terms were altered right before they were rendered into effect by defendant Kaitcer. vii. Plaintiff did not agree to the terms as he was in court that very day to expose Myers. M. Predicate Acts: Extortion 36. Kaitcer, knowing that no response was filed, knowing that he was presiding over a hearing to which he had no subject matter jurisdiction, and knowing that the temporary orders produced by defendant Carter was served just moments earlier, signed another associate judge's report pre-drafted by defendant Carter, which summarily denied the Plaintiff's emergency motion, ignored the fact that Carter had not provided a response, and within the report itself, Plaintiff was ordered to sign the document that Carter had just presented to him despite raising objections to its' contents, and despite his consent not being present. REC. 795. 37. Finally, defendant Kaitcer refused to consider Plaintiff's exhibits, including six affidavits prepared by his business clients who have been directly affected by his inability to provide the real-time market data services his clients relied on, who were located throughout the United States. REC. 851; REC. 854; REC. 857; REC. 860; REC. 863; REC. 867; REC. 870. 38. Following the setting, the orders were rendered into effect without Plaintiff's signature (REC. 925), and Plaintiff filed a request for findings of fact and conclusions of law (REC. 883), and filed and amended a "Preparatory Notice for Judicial Review" which recounted the factual timeline up to that point, and included the affidavits that Kaitcer refused to accept on March 14, 2024. REC. 798, REC. 851, REC. 854, REC. 857, REC. 860, REC. 863, REC. 867, REC. 870. 39. The orders stated they were to remain in effect until the final decree of divorce, and Plaintiff's journey of one-sided appeals began. N. One Sided Appellate Efforts, and Defective IWO 40. Following the rendition of the temporary orders on March 26, 2024, Plaintiff spent between April 8, 2024 and September 15, 2024, appealing via mandamus to the Second Court of Appeals and the Texas Supreme Court. REC. 1010. 41. During the appellate efforts, Carter filed one of two motions in the case, which was a motion for pre-trial conference filed on April 24, 2024, on her behalf by Roderick D. Marx, a party not named in the suit. REC. 1014, REC. 1016. 42. Plaintiff immediately objected to the pre-trial conference, and no response was ever issued by Carter or the court. REC. 1018. 43. On April 30th, Plaintiff filed his notice of completion regarding the parenting course as ordered, despite actively trying to vacate them. REC. 1047. No parenting course was ever completed by Myers. 44. On May 2, 2024, Plaintiff's en banc reconsideration was denied in the Second Court of Appeals, and he began preparing an appeal to the Supreme Court of Texas. REC. 1067. 45. On May 19, 2024, Carter sent the second and last email correspondence that would be received in the case, which falsely claimed he agreed to the orders signed on March 14, 2024, and requested that he fill out an IWO, which Plaintiff found to be defective. REC. 1722, REC. 1728. No further correspondence was received by Carter. O.

Fraudulent Intervention and Branthoover's Continued Involvement 46. On June 23rd Plaintiff filed a motion in state court entitled MOTION FOR JOINDER OF PERSONS NEEDED FOR JUST ADJUDICATION at 12:14 P.M. REC. 1075. This motion received no response from Carter. 47. On June 23rd at 1:54 P.M., directly following the submission of the motion, Branthoover texted Plaintiff stating "Lol. And here comes another denial. Please sue me individually. Please.", referring to the earlier filed motion and showing his continued oversight of the case's progression since his initial predicate acts. 48. Four days later, on June 28, 2024, the Texas Office of the Attorney General allegedly filed an intervention pleading, claiming that Plaintiff was past due on child support, and requested information from Plaintiff. REC. 1099. 49. Most notably, the certificate of service to this intervention pleading was allegedly signed by Holly Hayes, the designated attorney for the OAG, yet the name underneath the signature line reads CHOYA BURKLEY. REC. 1102. 50. Plaintiff promptly objected to the intervention, and never received any response from the OAG, Carter, or the court. REC. 1106. P. Supreme Court, Rule 12, and Emergency Temporary Orders 51. As Plaintiff continued to appeal to the Supreme Court of Texas, all prosecution came to an end in the trial court. It wasn't until September 15, 2024, that Plaintiff filed a first amended rehearing motion in the Texas Supreme Court, (REC. 1136) and after noticing Carter's lack of participation, he began to question her authority given several ambiguities surrounding her representation, and filed a rule 12 motion to show authority. REC. 1170. No response was ever received to this motion from Carter. 52. At this point, Plaintiff had been staying in Airbnb homes while he sought relief to ensure he could remain close to his daughters during this time. On September 26, 2024, he filed and later amended an EMERGENCY MOTION FOR TEMPORARY ORDERS and requested expedited relief by October 1, 2024, as that was when Plaintiff was forced to move away from the area due to cost of living being unsustainable. REC. 1184. No response was ever received from Carter regarding this motion. 53. By October 1, Plaintiff had no choice but to start pursuing administrative remedies, and thought the court was biased against him given the case's history up to that point. He began to prepare a Joint Motion to Recuse defendants Munford and Kaitcer and filed it with the clerk of the court on October 7, 2024. REC. 1197. Q. Predicate Act: Wire Fraud 54. On October 8, 2024, Defendant Munford signed and forwarded a "Joint Motion to Recuse" attached to his order of referral to regional presiding judge David L. Evans but was notably missing the exhibits and affidavit critical to the motion. REC. 1222 55. A copy of this exchange was sent via defendant Baker on 4:43 P.M. on October 8. REC. 1254 56. Plaintiff immediately pointed out the discrepancies between the motion filed and the motion forwarded to David L. Evans, where she replied and admitted that the full document had been e-filed and remains with the court. REC. 1255 57. Unsatisfied with this response, Plaintiff further pointed out that the filing size of the document filed and the one referring to David L. Evans was significantly different. No further correspondence was received by Baker until the following day. REC. 1256 58. The following day on October 8, 2024, defendant Munford signed and filed an "Amended Order of Referral" which had the full motion attached this time, albeit still modified as the hyperlinks and bookmarks had been removed. REC. 1282 59. This amended referral was sent via email correspondence by Baker at 11:17 A.M. on October 8, 2024, who stated that due to the size of the motion, it was split into three parts. REC. 1258. This excuse directly contradicts the standard filing procedure in Tarrant County, which was raised and subsequently ignored in an objection. REC. 1269. No response was filed in regard to the motion to recuse or objection by Carter. R. Recusal Denial and More Delays, and Federal Removal 60. Justice E. Lee Gabriel was assigned to hear the motion, which had to be rescheduled due to technical difficulties for November 7, 2024. REC. 1306. 61. The morning of the hearing, Plaintiff woke up with a dental emergency, and promptly notified all parties, and requested a reset for the hearing, which everyone agreed to. REC. 1393-1396. 62. Despite this agreement, the recusal was denied for failure to appear, and made no mention of the agreement or the emergency. REC. 1398. 63. With no other remedies left, Plaintiff removed the case to Federal Court on December 2, 2024, which was quickly remanded back on December 4, 2024. REC. 1426. 64. On December 14, 2024, defendant Branthoover texted Plaintiff, sending a threat which stated "[w]hen things all over, you get to deal with me." at 2:15 P.M. REC. 1720 65. On December 16, 2024, Plaintiff initiated suit against Daniel Kenneth Branthoover in the Western District of Oklahoma seeking relief in the form of damages from the ongoing deprivation from his home. REC. 1451. 66. Plaintiff notified the Texas court of this lawsuit on December 31, 2024. REC. 1446. S. Further Delays, Motion to Dismiss for Want of Prosecution, and the Original SAPCR 67. On January 24, 2025, Plaintiff filed a motion to dismiss for want of prosecution due to the total lack of participation in the case by the opposing party. REC. 1527. No response was ever received from Carter on this motion. 68. On January 29, 2025, defendant Myers began disposing of Plaintiff's personal belongings that remained on the family property. REC. 1629-1631. 69. On February 12, 2025, Plaintiff learned that his youngest daughter was suffering from dental pain due to Myers' failure to obtain dental insurance for the children. REC. 3281. 70. By March 14, (REC.

1833-1837) the judges had still not been reinstated from the first recusal, which led Plaintiff to reach out to Baker to request a hearing on his unopposed summary judgment that had been on the docket since February 22, 2024, where he had to remind her to reinstate the judges back into the case. REC. 1833-1837. 71. Given the delays, and since the case had been brought in bad faith initially, the Plaintiff opened an original SAPCR suit in the 233rd District Court of Tarrant County on March 18, 2025, where he argued for dominant jurisdiction in a cover letter sent to the clerk. REC. 2260. T. Counsel Suddenly Becomes Active 72. The very next day, defendant Carter filed an original answer filed on her behalf by Roderick Marx. REC. 2279. The motion was a boilerplate motion, and was followed by a motion to consolidate, which was filed in the wrong court, and was also filed on Carter's behalf by RODERICK D. MARX. REC. 2284. 73. The Plaintiff immediately responded by filing a motion to strike (REC. 1957) a Rule 12 motion to show authority challenging both Carter and RODERICK D MARX's authority (REC. 2288) and on March 24, 2025, an emergency ex-parte TRO to prevent Myers from barring Plaintiff's access to the home. (REC. 2302) No responses were ever received from Carter on these motions. 74. On March 26, 2025, an objection was filed to Carter's consolidation motion in the 233rd court. REC. 1881. 75. Plaintiff reached out to the coordinator from the 233rd and went through the process to present the motion to the judge. REC. 2338-2341. 76. On March 29, 2025, Plaintiff appeared before Associate Judge Kate Stone, who refused to hear Plaintiff's emergency motion despite no response being filed, and told him to leave the courtroom. The hearing date scheduled for April 10, 2025, as agreed by Carter and Plaintiff (REC. 2358), was actually un-set by Stone. REC. 2361. 77. The grounds for this outright refusal was due to Carter calling in a favor from the judge without even being present in the courtroom, to where Stone left the room, came back, and told the Plaintiff to leave informing him that a motion to consolidate would be filed by Carter the following week. U. Five Concurrent Mandamus Petitions 78. Subsequently, after he was turned away from the courtroom, Carter's consolidation motion wasn't filed until April 4, 2025 (REC. 2367), resulting in two mandamus petitions to try again to have the March 14, 2024, order signed by Kaitcer vacated, and to compel Kate Stone to hear the emergency TRO. See 25-0361, 25-0367. 79. On the same day the mandamus was filed against Stone, District Judge Kenneth Newell sua sponte granted Carter's consolidation motion in both courts without a hearing, and without addressing the emergency situation for the children or the Plaintiff's objections, leading to a third mandamus proceeding. REC. 2393, See also 25-0378. 80. On April 23, 2025, a notice of trial setting was served on the parties by defendant Munford in the midst of all of these issues. REC. 1773. 81. The same day, Plaintiff filed an objection and requested an emergency stay. REC. 2219. No response was received to this objection by either Munford or Carter. 82. Two days later on April 25, 2025, Plaintiff filed his second recusal motion, and amended it on April 28, 2025, this time only against Munford, and requested that the rules of procedure be followed, and objected to the involvement of the court coordinator given the prior recusal's ambiguity and significant delays caused by her involvement. REC. 2488 No response to this motion was ever filed from Carter. 83. Baker continued to be involved in the recusal process, this time erroneously forwarding an order of referral from defendant Kaitcer, who was not named in the recusal motion. REC. 2615. 84. Plaintiff immediately objected on April 29, 2025, naming two issues: 1) the coordinator was still involved, and 2) the order of referral sent by Kaitcer was erroneous. REC. 2620. 84. Plaintiff objected to the order of assignment of John H. Cayce (REC. 3149) which was issued on May 7, 2025, due to the unresolves issues. REC. 2620. 85. David L. Evans overruled this objection on May 15, 2025, leading to mandamus petition 25-0426, a direct appeal to the Texas Supreme Court. REC. 3507. 86. On May 20, 2025, John H. Cayce summarily denied the recusal, including the denial of a motion to recuse Kaitcer which was never filed, leading to mandamus petition 25-0458, a second direct appeal to the Texas Supreme Court. 87. All five petitions were denied both initially and on rehearing, and all emergency motions to stay proceedings were dismissed. The only insights given from the appellate courts was: "Denied, per curiam." No response was filed by any implicated judge or opposing counsel. V. Federal RICO Case and the Push Towards Final Trial 88. In June of 2025, Plaintiff amended his complaint against Daniel Kenneth Branthoover and enjoined Myers as a defendant, which they defended pro-se. 89. Plaintiff communicated this action with the trial court, and no further action was taken in the case until August of 2025, when defendant Munford sua sponte set the case for final trial on December 10, 2025. 90. Plaintiff immediately objected to this trial setting, and moved to recuse Munford for a third time. 91. The court coordinator continued to be involved in the process, leading to a subsequent motion to recuse the regional presiding judge, David L. Evans. 92. Plaintiff now prepares this suit to hold defendants accountable for their collective actions, and to prevent their common goal from being achieved, which is to obtain defendant Myers a final decree of divorce. 93. For the forthcoming reasons, the conduct outlined herein constitutes conduct of an enterprise through a pattern of racketeering activity, as several predicate acts were committed, the enterprise shares a common purpose, and Plaintiff has suffered direct and ongoing injury to business and property as a direct result of the defendant's collective predicate acts. RICO The timeline and evidence provided demonstrate that the Myers-Branthroover group constitutes an association-in-fact enterprise under RICO, with a common goal to deprive the Plaintiff of his home and business through a pattern of racketeering activity—specifically, wire fraud, Travel Act violations, and fraudulent court filings—causing direct injury to the Plaintiff's business and property. The conduct, structure, and continuity among the participants, as well as the use of interstate communications and travel, satisfy the elements of a RICO claim in the Tenth Circuit, with the liability of other defendants depending on their knowledge and intent. A. Summary The Myers-Branthroover enterprise, as detailed in the factual timeline, meets the Tenth Circuit's requirements for a RICO claim by establishing an association-in-fact enterprise with a defined structure, purpose, and continuity. The group's coordinated actions—including interstate transfer of funds, preparation and submission of fraudulent legal documents, and ongoing manipulation of court proceedings—constitute a pattern of racketeering activity, with predicate acts of wire fraud and Travel Act violations that are related and continuous. Plaintiff's direct and ongoing injury to his business and property, including loss of home, business operations, and client relationships, is proximately caused by the enterprise's acts. While Myers and Branthoover's liability is clear, the involvement of other defendants (Munford, Kaitcer, Carter, and Baker) may be characterized as inadvertent or willing participation, depending on their knowledge and intent, but the core elements of a RICO violation are satisfied by the conduct of Myers and Branthover as outlined in the enumerated timeline. The additional acts committed by each defendant, as alleged, furthered the scheme of the enterprise despite each additional defendant having actual knowledge of the fraudulent scheme.

RICO Statutory Framework

The Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Act (RICO), codified at 18 U.S.C. §§ 1961–1968, provides a civil cause of action for individuals injured in their business or property by reason of a pattern of racketeering activity conducted through an enterprise affecting interstate or foreign commerce. The most commonly invoked provision, § 1962(c), prohibits any person employed by or associated with an enterprise from conducting or participating in the conduct of such enterprise's affairs through a pattern of racketeering activity. Section 1962(d) further prohibits conspiracies to violate any of the substantive RICO provisions. To establish a civil RICO claim under § 1962(c), a plaintiff must prove:

- i. The existence of an enterprise;
- ii. The enterprise's engagement in, or effect on, interstate or foreign commerce;
- iii. The defendant's employment by or association with the enterprise;
- iv. The defendant's participation, directly or indirectly, in the conduct of the enterprise's affairs;
- v. The defendant's participation through a pattern of racketeering activity or collection of unlawful debt.

See 100 Mount Holly Bypass v. Axos Bank, Case No. 2:20-CV-856-TS-CMR (D. Utah Jul 27, 2021).

B. Predicate Acts and Pattern Requirement

RICO defines "racketeering activity" to include a wide range of criminal offenses, including wire fraud (18 U.S.C. § 1343) and violations of the Travel Act (18 U.S.C. § 1952). A "pattern of racketeering activity" requires at least two predicate acts within a ten-year period, but the acts must be related and amount to or pose a threat of continued criminal activity. The Supreme Court has clarified that a RICO violation requires both an "enterprise" and a "pattern of racketeering activity," with the enterprise being a group of persons associated for a common purpose, and the pattern involving a series of criminal acts (United States v. Harris, 695 F.3d 1125 (10th Cir. 2012)). The Tenth Circuit has further explained that, to establish a pattern, it is not enough to simply show that two predicate acts occurred within ten years; the acts must also be related and pose a threat of continued criminal activity (U.S. v. Smith, 413 F.3d 1253 (10th Cir. 2005)). Note, however, that U.S. v. Smith has been stated as overruled by United States v. Nissen, 555 F.Supp.3d 1174 (D. N.M. 2021) on unrelated grounds, but its articulation of the pattern requirement remains consistent with current law.

C. Enterprise and Association-in-Fact

An "enterprise" under RICO includes any individual, partnership, corporation, association, or group of individuals associated in fact, even if not a legal entity. For an association-in-fact enterprise, the Tenth Circuit requires:

- i. A purpose;
- ii. Relationships among those associated with the enterprise;
- iii. Longevity sufficient to permit the associates to pursue the enterprise's purpose;
- iv. A decision-making framework or mechanism for controlling the group;
- v. Functioning as a continuing unit;
- vi. Existence separate and apart from the pattern of racketeering activity.

See 100 Mount Holly Bypass.

D. Conspiracy

Section 1962(d) makes it unlawful to conspire to violate any of the substantive RICO provisions. A RICO conspiracy does not require the establishment of an enterprise but requires that a defendant adopts the goal of furthering or facilitating a criminal endeavor that would satisfy the elements of a substantive RICO offense (United States v. Martinez, 543 F.Supp.3d 1209 (D. N.M. 2021); United States v. Randall, 661 F.3d 1291

(10th Cir. 2011)). E. Injury Requirement RICO provides a private right of action for individuals injured in their business or property through fraudulent conduct, and there is no requirement that the conduct be connected to organized crime in a civil setting (Plains Resources, Inc. v. Gable, 782 F.2d 883 (10th Cir. 1986)). ANALYSIS F. Existence of an Association-in-Fact Enterprise The timeline establishes that Myers and Branthoover formed an association-in-fact enterprise beginning in December 2023 (¶¶ 1-7, 93). Their collaboration was structured, with Myers as the petitioner in the divorce and Branthoover as the planner, drafter, and facilitator of fraudulent documents and financial transactions. The group had a clear purpose: to divest the Plaintiff of his home and business through fraudulent legal filings and manipulation of court processes (¶¶ 1-7, 93). The enterprise's structure is evidenced by: i. The initial planning and agreement to meet in Yukon, Oklahoma, to draft fraudulent documents (¶¶ 1-3); ii. The use of interstate communications and travel to further the scheme (¶¶ 2-3); iii. Ongoing coordination and adaptation to changing circumstances, including the preparation and submission of false affidavits and pleadings, and manipulation of court proceedings (¶¶ 5-7, 34, 93). This satisfies the Tenth Circuit's requirements for an association-in-fact enterprise, which does not require a formal legal entity but does require a common purpose, relationships, and sufficient longevity to pursue the enterprise's goals. G. Structure, Purpose, Relationships, and Continuity The Myers-Branthrover group meets the requirements for an association-in-fact enterprise: i. Purpose: The shared goal was to deprive the Plaintiff of his home, business, and property interests through fraudulent means (¶¶ 1-7, 93). ii. Relationships: Myers and Branthoover maintained ongoing communications, coordinated actions, and divided roles in the scheme (¶¶ 1-7, 93). iii. Longevity and Continuity: The enterprise operated over a substantial period, from at least December 2023 through present day 2025, with multiple related acts and ongoing adaptation to changing circumstances (¶¶ 1-93). iv. Decision-Making Framework: The group planned, agreed on steps, and executed those steps in a coordinated manner (¶¶ 1-7, 93). v. Existence Separate from Predicate Acts: The enterprise was formed for the purpose of achieving a specific goal and engaged in multiple acts over time to accomplish that goal. H. Predicate Acts: Wire Fraud, Travel Act Violations, and Fraudulent Filings The timeline identifies multiple predicate acts that qualify as racketeering activity under RICO: i. Wire Fraud: Myers transferred $1,576 in marital funds to Branthoover's PayPal account during interstate travel, and these funds were used to purchase a phone for use in the fraudulent scheme (¶¶ 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 34). The use of electronic communications (text messages, emails) to plan and execute the scheme further supports the wire fraud allegation (¶¶ 1-7, 34). ii. Travel Act Violations: Myers traveled from Texas to Oklahoma to meet with Branthoover, where they planned and prepared fraudulent legal documents, which were then transported back to Texas and submitted to the court (¶¶ 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7). iii. Fraudulent Filings: The preparation and submission of false affidavits and pleadings to the court, containing material misrepresentations about financial status, family violence, and property ownership, constitute further predicate acts (¶¶ 5, 6, 7, 34). At least two related predicate acts within ten years are required (U.S. v. Smith, 413 F.3d 1253 (10th Cir. 2005)), and the timeline shows multiple, related predicate acts over a substantial period (¶¶ 1-93). I. Pattern of Racketeering Activity: Relatedness and Continuity The predicate acts were not isolated incidents but part of an ongoing scheme. The acts were related in that they all aimed to deprive the Plaintiff of his property and business, and they posed a threat of continued criminal activity, as the enterprise continued to operate and adapt its tactics over time (¶¶ 1-93). The timeline shows that the enterprise's activities extended over a substantial period, with multiple acts occurring over months and involving ongoing coordination and adaptation to changing circumstances. J. Injury to Business or Property Plaintiff suffered direct and ongoing injury to his business and property as a result of the enterprise's actions. He was deprived of his home and business operations, lost access to marital funds, and was unable to provide services to clients, resulting in financial harm (¶¶ 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 37). These injuries are precisely the type of harm RICO is designed to redress. Plains Resources, Inc. v. Gable, 782 F. 2d 883 (10th Cir. 1986)). K. Participation of Other Defendants: Inadvertent or Willing The timeline raises the question of whether Munford, Kaitcer, Carter, and Baker were victims of the initial scheme or willing participants in the expanded enterprise. The evidence suggests that, at a minimum, Myers and Branthoover were the core members of the enterprise, with others potentially becoming involved through their actions in the legal proceedings (¶¶ 14-93). i. Inadvertent Participation: Some defendants may have participated inadvertently, such as by issuing orders or facilitating court processes without knowledge of the underlying scheme (¶¶ 14-93). ii. Willing Participation: Others may have become willing participants if they knowingly furthered the enterprise's objectives or ignored clear evidence of fraud and misrepresentation (¶¶ 14-93). RICO does not impose liability for inadvertent or unwitting participation; there must be knowing and willful involvement in the conduct of the enterprise's affairs. For the forthcoming reasons, Plaintiff alleges that the Defendants are willing participants in the scheme. VICTIM OR PARTICIPANT RICO liability extends to those who knowingly participate in the conduct of the enterprise's affairs, even if they were not original members (RICO: A Primer (2022-01-31)). The timeline raises the question of whether Munford, Kaitcer, Carter, and Baker were victims of the initial scheme or willing participants in the expanded enterprise. The evidence suggests that, at a minimum, Myers and Branthoover were the core members of the enterprise, with others becoming involved through their actions in the legal proceedings (¶¶ 14-93). The timeline demonstrates that Carter, Kaitcer, and Myers engaged in extortion by leveraging the threat of adverse legal action, fraudulent court orders, and the manipulation of judicial process to coerce Plaintiff into relinquishing property and business interests, satisfying the elements of extortion as a predicate act under RICO and the Travel Act. Munford and Baker, for their part, committed wire fraud by intentionally sending altered or incomplete court documents via interstate email, with the intent to mislead, obstruct relief, and further the enterprise's objective of finalizing the divorce and depriving Plaintiff of his property, thus meeting the requirements for wire fraud as a RICO predicate act. These acts, as detailed in the timeline, are not isolated but part of a coordinated pattern of racketeering activity within an association-in-fact enterprise, as required by RICO in the Tenth Circuit. The conduct of each defendant is tied to specific predicate acts—extortion for Carter, Kaitcer, and Myers (notably at timeline events 33-37), and wire fraud for Munford and Baker (notably at events 54-59, 83)—demonstrating knowing and willful participation in the enterprise's broader scheme to deprive Plaintiff of his home and business through fraudulent and coercive means. A. Extortion and Wire Fraud The Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Act (RICO), 18 U.S.C. §§ 1961–1968, provides a civil cause of action for injury to business or property caused by a pattern of racketeering activity conducted through an enterprise affecting interstate commerce.

Predicate acts under RICO include extortion (as defined by the Hobbs Act and the Travel Act) and wire fraud (18 U.S.C. § 1343), among others.

Extortion is defined as obtaining property from another, with his consent, induced by wrongful use of actual or threatened force, violence, or fear, or under color of official right. The Travel Act, 18 U.S.C. § 1952, includes extortion as an “unlawful activity” and does not require it to be part of a business enterprise (U.S. v. Welch, 327 F.3d 1081 (10th Cir. 2003)). The Tenth Circuit recognizes that extortion under the Travel Act can be established by showing threats or coercion to obtain something of value, including property or legal rights, in violation of state or federal law. Wire fraud under 18 U.S.C. § 1343 requires (1) a scheme to defraud or obtain property by false or fraudulent pretenses, (2) intent to defraud, and (3) use of interstate wire communications to execute the scheme (Clinton v. Sec.

Benefit Life Ins. Co., 63 F.4th 1264 (10th Cir. 2023); United States v. Holloway, 826 F.3d 1237 (10th Cir. 2016)). The Tenth Circuit requires that the deprivation of property be a central object of the scheme, and that the use of wires (including email) be knowing and in furtherance of the fraudulent scheme (United States v. Tao, 629 F.Supp.3d 1083). B. Extortion by Carter, Kaitcer, and Myers Extortion, as a RICO predicate act, is defined broadly under federal law and the Travel Act. It includes obtaining property or rights through threats, coercion, or misuse of official process (U.S. v. Welch, 327 F.3d 1081 (10th Cir. 2003)). The Tenth Circuit does not require extortion to be part of a business enterprise for Travel Act purposes; a single act suffices if it has the requisite interstate nexus. The timeline shows the following:

- i. Event 33–34: Carter, with Myers, prepared and presented “Temporary Orders” that misrepresented facts (e.g., that Plaintiff agreed to terms he did not, that a hearing occurred when it did not, and that the orders were in the best interests of the children). These orders altered the dates of access to the home to shield Myers from liability for locking Plaintiff out, and were presented to Plaintiff in a context where he was under threat of losing his home and business.
- iii. Event 36: Kaitcer, knowing the orders were disputed and that no response had been filed, signed an associate judge’s report pre-drafted by Carter, summarily denying Plaintiff’s emergency motion and ordering Plaintiff to sign the disputed document, despite his objections and lack of consent.
- iv. Event 35: Plaintiff refused to sign the orders for multiple reasons, including their fraudulent content and the lack of due process, but the orders were rendered into effect without his signature. These acts collectively demonstrate the use of legal process and the threat of adverse judicial action to coerce Plaintiff into surrendering his property and business interests. The manipulation of court orders, the misrepresentation of facts, and the pressure to sign under threat of losing his home constitute extortion under the Travel Act and RICO (U.S. v. Welch, 327 F.3d 1081 (10th Cir. 2003)). Myers’s role is clear: she was the beneficiary and instigator of the fraudulent filings and the manipulation of court process, using the threat of legal action and the actual deprivation of Plaintiff’s property to achieve her goal. Carter and Kaitcer acted in concert with Myers, knowingly facilitating the extortion by preparing, presenting, and enforcing fraudulent orders, and by using the authority of the court to coerce Plaintiff. The fact that Plaintiff was ordered to sign a document he objected to, under threat of continued deprivation of his home and business, is classic extortion by color of official right. All three defendants knew that Plaintiff did not agree to the order, as he had just fired his attorney to challenge any basis for an agreement. This implies that despite the motion being served on all defendants, they chose to ignore the allegations of a fraudulent scheme and further the affairs of the enterprise. These actions meet the requirements for extortion as a RICO predicate act: they involved the wrongful use of threats and official process to obtain property (the home and business) from Plaintiff, with his consent induced by fear of further loss or legal harm. The acts were not isolated but part of a coordinated scheme to achieve the enterprise's goal of finalizing the divorce and divesting Plaintiff of his property B. Wire Fraud by Munford and Baker Wire fraud under 18 U.S.C. § 1343 requires a scheme to defraud, intent to defraud, and use of interstate wire communications to execute the scheme (Clinton v. Sec. Benefit Life Ins. Co., 63 F.4th 1264 (10th Cir. 2023); United States v. Holloway, 826 F.3d 1237 (10th Cir. 2016)). The Tenth Circuit recognizes that sending altered or incomplete court documents via email, with the intent to mislead or deprive someone of property or rights, can constitute wire fraud if the deprivation of property is a central object of the scheme (United States v. Tao, 629 F.Supp.3d 1083). The timeline shows the following: i. Event 54: Munford signed and forwarded a "Joint Motion to Recuse" attached to his order of referral, but the document was missing critical exhibits and affidavits necessary for Plaintiff's relief. ii. Event 55: Baker sent a copy of this incomplete filing via email, representing it as the full document. iii. Event 56-57: When Plaintiff pointed out the discrepancies, Baker provided inconsistent explanations, first claiming the full document was e-filed, then later stating it was split into three parts due to size. iv. Event 58: Munford signed and filed an "Amended Order of Referral" with the full motion attached, but with hyperlinks and bookmarks removed, further impairing the document's integrity. v. Event 59, 83: Baker continued to forward altered or incomplete orders and referrals, even when procedural irregularities were raised. These acts involved the knowing use of interstate email to transmit altered or incomplete court documents, with the intent to prevent Plaintiff from obtaining relief and to further the enterprise's goal of finalizing the divorce and depriving Plaintiff of his property. The use of email to transmit these documents satisfies the interstate wire requirement, and the intent to defraud is evidenced by the deliberate alteration and misrepresentation of the filings. The conduct of Munford and Baker meets the elements of wire fraud: (1) a scheme to defraud Plaintiff of property and rights, (2) intent to defraud by preventing relief and misleading the court and Plaintiff, and (3) use of interstate wire communications (email) to execute the scheme (Clinton v. Sec. Benefit Life Ins. Co., 63 F.4th 1264 (10th Cir. 2023)). The deprivation of property (Plaintiff's home and business) was a central object of the scheme, not a minor part.

RELATIONSHIP AND CONTINUITY All these acts—extortion by Carter, Kaitcer, and Myers, and wire fraud by Munford and Baker—were committed in furtherance of the Myers-Branthrover enterprise's overarching objective: to finalize the divorce and divest Plaintiff of his home and business. The acts were coordinated, continuous, and related, satisfying the RICO pattern requirement. The timeline shows that each defendant's conduct was not an

2	80.00%	15.00%	5.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0	0.00%	USD	2021-04	1	1	0	0	0
0.8	0.15	0.05	0	0	0	80.00%	15.00%	5.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0	0.00%	USD	2021-05
1	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	0.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0
0.00%	USD	2022-01	2916.25	2916.25	0	0	2519.28	126.76	231.37	0	0	0	87.13%	4.38%	8.00%	0.00%
0.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0.00%	13.84	0.48%	USD	2022-02	5882.64	5882.64	0	0	0	4.21%
5882.64	5882.64	0	0	0	4923.26	236.69	450.19	0	0	51.44	87.51%	4.21%	8.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0.00%
8.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0.00%	16.06	0.29%	USD	2022-03	7666	7666	0	0	6567.95	313.14	600.59	0	0
100	87.50%	4.17%	8.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0.00%	24.32	0.32%	USD	2022-04
9526.75	9526.75	0	0	0	8112.42	378.14	743.51	0	0	190	87.31%	4.07%	8.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0.00%
0	57.68	0.62%	USD	2022-05	8127.81	8127.81	0	0	0	6812.69	323.11	622.55	0	0	323.04	87.57%	4.15%
8.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0.00%	21.42	0.28%	USD	2022-06	7947.64	7947.64	0	0	6629.46	314.91	605.84	0	0	336.02	87.56%	4.16%	8.00%	0.00%	0.00%
21.41	0.28%	USD	2022-07	10669.45	10669.45	0	0	0	9263.98	410.42	843.25	0	0	130	87.90%	3.89%	8.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0.00%	21.8	0.21%	USD	2022-08
14342.52	14342.52	0	0	0	12552.63	525.19	1139.56	0	0	75	88.13%	3.69%	8.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0.00%	25.14	0.18%	USD	2022-09	8053.85	8053.85	0	0	0
6793.71	317.21	620.46	0	0	300	87.62%	4.09%	8.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0.00%	22.47	0.29%	USD	2022-10	6625.88	6625.88	0	0	0	5571.95	268.21	509.87	0	0
0	254.81	87.46%	4.21%	8.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0.00%	21.04	0.33%	USD	2022-11	6080.05	6080.05	0	0	0	5273.87	253.55	482.51	0	0	50.22	87.46%
4.20%	8.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0.00%	19.9	0.33%	USD	2022-12	5798.88	5798.88	0	0	0	4865.43	233.14	445	0	0	237.98	87.49%	4.19%	8.00%	0.00%	0.00%
0.00%	17.33	0.31%	USD	2023-01	5098.11	5098.11	0	0	0	4379.74	210.66	400.75	0	0	90	87.45%	4.21%	8.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0.00%	16.96	0.34%	USD	2023-02
4683.35	4683.35	0	0	0	4061.35	194.99	371.57	0	0	40	87.47%	4.20%	8.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0.00%	15.44	0.33%	USD	2023-03	4458.2	4458.2	0	0	0
3856.1	185.26	352.76	0	0	50	87.48%	4.20%	8.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0.00%	14.08	0.32%	USD	2023-04	4212.53	4212.53	0	0	0	3586.89	172.94	328.32	0	0
0	110	87.43%	4.22%	8.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0.00%	14.38	0.35%	USD	2023-05	4693.53	4693.53	0	0	0	3797.73	179.13	348.76	0	0	335	87.13%	4.11%	8.00%
0.00%	0.00%	0.00%	32.91	0.76%	USD	2023-06	3505.96	3505.96	0	0	0	3022.21	145.09	276.55	0	0	50	87.45%	4.20%	8.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0.00%	16.96	0.34%	USD	2023-07
12.11	0.35%	USD	2023-08	3612.26	3612.26	0	0	0	3117.61	147.89	285.07	0	0	50	87.52%	4.15%	8.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0.00%	11.69	0.33%	USD	2023-09
3379.11	3379.11	0	0	0	2914.33	137.27	266.37	0	0	50	87.54%	4.12%	8.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0.00%	11.14	0.33%	USD	2023-10	3206.53	3206.53	0	0	0
2806.6	132.35	256.63	0	0	0	87.53%	4.13%	8.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0.34%	USD	2023-11	3164.81	3164.81	0	0	0	2735.98	128.8	250.05	0	0	40	87.56%	4.12%	8.00%	0.00%
87.56%	4.12%	8.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0.00%	9.98	0.32%	USD	2023-12	3206.53	3206.53	0	0	0	10.00%	0.00%	10	0.34%	USD	2024-01	2873.59	2873.59	0	0	0
3027.03	0	0	0	2548.98	120.02	233.03	0	0	115	87.53%	4.12%	8.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0.00%	10.93	0.38%	USD	2024-02	2818.68	2818.68	0	0	0	2438.16	114.61	222.89	0	0	90	87.54%	4.12%	8.00%	0.00%
222.89	0	0	90	87.54%	4.12%	8.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0.00%	9.49	0.34%	USD	2024-03	2548.65	2548.65	0	0	0	2173.6	102.8	198.74	0	0	65	87.52%	4.14%	8.00%	0.00%
10.79	0.39%	USD	2024-04	2548.65	2548.65	0	0	0	2173.6	102.8	198.74	0	0	65	87.52%	4.14%	8.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0.00%	7.65	0.35%	USD	2024-05	2828.33	2828.33	0	0	0
2238.41	2238.41	0	0	0	1936.48	92.19	177.09	0	0	25	87.49%	4.17%	8.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0.00%	7.65	0.35%	USD	2024-06	2131.25	2131.25	0	0	0	1809.11	85.53	165.33	0	0	65	1870.49	88.6	171	0	0	691.36	87.53%	4.15%	8.00%	0.00%	0.00%	0.00%	6.88	0.32%	USD

87.56% 4.14% 8.00% 0.00% 0.00% 0.00% 6.28 0.30% USD 2024-07 1999.32
1999.32 0 0 0 1656.72 77.97 151.3 0 0 108.43 87.62% 4.12% 8.00% 0.00%
0.00% 0.00% 4.9 0.26% USD 2024-08 1766.92 1766.92 0 0 0 1470.3 69.2
134.18 0 0 90 87.68% 4.13% 8.00% 0.00% 0.00% 0.00% 3.24 0.19% USD
2024-09 1721.73 1721.73 0 0 0 1450.56 68.22 132.37 0 0 67.28 87.68%
4.12% 8.00% 0.00% 0.00% 0.00% 3.3 0.20% USD 2024-10 1575.93 1575.93
0 0 0 1359.5 63.99 124.09 0 0 25 87.66% 4.13% 8.00% 0.00% 0.00%
3.35 0.22% USD 2024-11 1447.12 1447.12 0 0 0 1246.59 58.5 113.79 0 0 25
87.66% 4.11% 8.00% 0.00% 0.00% 0.00% 3.24 0.23% USD 2024-12 1394.93
1394.93 0 0 0 1199.73 56.03 109.42 0 0 27.43 87.73% 4.10% 8.00% 0.00%
0.00% 0.00% 2.32 0.17% USD 2025-01 1366.15 1366.15 0 0 0 1198.57
55.99 109.3 0 0 0 87.73% 4.10% 8.00% 0.00% 0.00% 0.00% 2.29 0.17% USD
2025-02 1390.57 1390.57 0 0 0 1184.53 55.71 108.06 0 0 40 87.71% 4.12%
8.00% 0.00% 0.00% 0.00% 2.27 0.17% USD 2025-03 1311.4 1311.4 0 0 0
1150.61 53.58 104.92 0 0 0 87.74% 4.09% 8.00% 0.00% 0.00% 0.00% 2.29
0.17% USD 2025-04 1223.96 1223.96 0 0 0 1029.43 48.23 93.93 0 0 50
87.69% 4.11% 8.00% 0.00% 0.00% 0.00% 2.37 0.20% USD 2025-05 1152.12
1152.12 0 0 0 974.77 45.91 88.98 0 0 40 87.65% 4.13% 8.00% 0.00% 0.00%
0.00% 2.46 0.22% USD 2025-06 1219.39 1152.12 67.27 0 0 1046.34 48.27
97.58 20.19 0 0 85.81% 3.96% 8.00% 0.00% 0.00% 0.00% 7.01 0.57% USD
2025-07 931.68 931.68 0 0 0 816.05 38.63 74.55 0 0 0 87.59% 4.15% 8.00%
0.00% 0.00% 0.00% 2.45 0.26% USD 2025-08 820 820 0 0 0 721.23 33.17
65.6 0 0 0 87.95% 4.05% 8.00% 0.00% 0.00% 0.00% 0.00% 0.00% USD 2025-09
883.5 883.5 0 0 0 773.73 36.59 70.69 0 0 0 87.58% 4.14% 8.00% 0.00%
0.00% 0.00% 2.49 0.28% USD Take the data above, and argue this theory:
Plaintiff began to build a market-data infrastructure in 2022, and exploded beyond his capability, requiring him to dial back and familiarize himself with database management systems and to eventually upgrade the internet connection at the family residence to handle the ultra-low latency that his clients relied upon. The data shows that in 2022 the business income exploded to upwards of 12,000 per month, and then immediately crashed thereafter due to the inability to handle customer demands at that time. He spent the next two years equipping himself and upgrading his systems to handle a much larger amount of traffic, and prepared to re-launch in January of 2024. That's when Myers suddenly announced a divorce, and intentionally lied to try and gain the house and custody of the kids, which worked. This has effectively shut down the business, because it needs to be argued that no reasonable person could pick up a system highly dependant on a specific internet setup and ultra-low latency, and expect to just go stay with someone else. Then total the losses, account for the future losses given the nearly two-year period where plaintiff has been unable to operate and scale, and tie it to the facts and the data above. Plaintiff attempted to mitigate losses by seeking alternative accommodations and legal remedies but was unable to replicate the technical environment required for his business. The business's dependence on ultra-low latency internet and specialized hardware made it impossible to resume operations from temporary or shared housing. A plaintiff is not required to take unreasonable or impracticable steps to mitigate damages. See United Phosphorus, Ltd. v. Midland Fumigant, Inc., 205 F.3d 1219, 1236 (10th Cir. 2000). Plaintiff's inability to mitigate losses was reasonable under the circumstances, and the full measure of lost profits is recoverable.

Answer (Tenth Circuit)

Short response

The business records and timeline support that Plaintiff's market-data business was thriving in 2022, suffered a technical collapse, and was poised for relaunch in early 2024 when the alleged racketeering scheme deprived him of the only environment capable of supporting his operations, resulting in catastrophic and ongoing lost profits that he could not reasonably mitigate. Under Tenth Circuit law, Plaintiff's inability to resume operations from temporary housing was reasonable, and the full measure of lost profits—past and future—directly caused by Defendants' acts is recoverable.

Summary

Plaintiff's business data shows a dramatic rise in income through 2022, followed by a sharp decline as technical limitations outpaced his infrastructure, prompting a period of reinvestment and system upgrades at the family residence. Just as Plaintiff was prepared to relaunch in January 2024, the alleged fraudulent divorce proceedings and loss of access to the home—engineered by Defendants—made it impossible to operate a business dependent on ultra-low latency internet and specialized hardware, resulting in a total shutdown.

The law in the Tenth Circuit requires that RICO damages be proven with reasonable certainty and be a foreseeable result of the predicate acts. Here, the business's unique technical requirements, Plaintiff's diligent but unsuccessful mitigation efforts, and the direct link between Defendants' conduct and the loss of business income all support recovery of lost profits, including future losses, as a compensable injury under civil RICO.

Background and Relevant Law

Civil RICO Damages and Lost Profits

To recover damages under civil RICO, a plaintiff must show concrete financial loss to business or property, proximately caused by the predicate acts of racketeering. The measure of damages is the harm caused by the predicate acts, and only losses to business or property that are a direct result of the RICO violation are compensable. Future damages may be awarded if they can be established with reasonable certainty as a result of the RICO violation. The plaintiff must provide a reasonable basis for recovery, supported by competent proof, and not mere speculation. See Civil Rico: A Tool of Advocacy (2024-01-01).

Lost profits are recoverable in fraud and RICO actions if they can be proven with reasonable certainty and are a foreseeable consequence of the defendant's acts. Courts have discretion to fashion equitable remedies, including disgorgement and lost profits, and may estimate damages if the defendant's conduct or poor record-keeping makes precise calculation difficult. See Klein-Becker USA, LLC v. Englert, 711 F.3d 1153 \(10th Cir. 2013\).

A plaintiff is not required to take unreasonable or impracticable steps to mitigate damages. If the circumstances make mitigation impossible or unreasonable, the full measure of lost profits is recoverable. See United Phosphorus, Ltd. v. Midland Fumigant, Inc., 205 F.3d 1219, 1236 (10th Cir. 2000) (as cited in the prompt).

Analysis

1. Business Growth, Collapse, and Technical Constraints

The business records show that Plaintiff's market-data business experienced explosive growth in 2022, with monthly gross receipts peaking at over $14,000 (August 2022) and regularly exceeding $8,000-$12,000 per month for much of that year. This surge in demand quickly outstripped Plaintiff's technical capacity, as evidenced by the subsequent crash in income beginning in late 2022 and continuing through 2023. The data supports Plaintiff's assertion that he was forced to "dial back" operations and invest in learning database management and upgrading the family residence's internet infrastructure to support the ultra-low latency required by his clients.

The business's dependence on a specific technical environment is corroborated by the income data: after the 2022 crash, Plaintiff's earnings stabilized at a much lower level, consistent with a business in maintenance mode while undergoing technical upgrades. The timeline and records show that Plaintiff spent 2023 preparing for a relaunch, with the expectation of returning to high-volume operations in early 2024.

2. The Impact of the Alleged RICO Scheme

In December 2023, just as Plaintiff was poised to relaunch, Myers initiated divorce proceedings and, through a series of allegedly fraudulent acts, succeeded in removing Plaintiff from the family residence. The timeline details how this was accomplished through a pattern of racketeering activity, including wire fraud, extortion, and fraudulent court filings, all designed to deprive Plaintiff of his home and, by extension, his business.

The business's technical requirements—ultra-low latency internet, specialized hardware, and a stable, secure environment—made it impossible for Plaintiff to simply relocate operations to temporary or shared housing. The records show that after losing access to the residence, Plaintiff's business income collapsed and never recovered, despite his efforts to find alternative accommodations and pursue legal remedies.

3. Reasonableness of Mitigation Efforts

The law does not require a plaintiff to take unreasonable or impracticable steps to mitigate damages. Here, Plaintiff attempted to mitigate his losses by seeking alternative housing and legal relief, but was unable to replicate the technical environment necessary for his business. The unique nature of the business—serving clients who require real-time market data with ultra-low latency—means that only a highly specialized setup would suffice. The data shows that after being forced out of the residence, Plaintiff's income dropped to a fraction of its former level, confirming that mitigation was not feasible.

This is precisely the type of situation contemplated by the Tenth Circuit in United Phosphorus, Ltd. v. Midland Fumigant, Inc., 205 F.3d 1219, 1236 (10th Cir. 2000), where a plaintiff is not required to take steps that are unreasonable or impracticable under the circumstances. The business's dependence on a unique technical setup, and Plaintiff's inability to recreate it elsewhere, make his inability to mitigate both reasonable and foreseeable.

4. Calculation of Lost Profits and Future Damages

The measure of damages in a civil RICO action is the harm caused by the predicate acts. Here, the predicate acts—fraudulent filings, wire fraud, and extortion—directly resulted in Plaintiff's loss of access to the only environment capable of supporting his business. The business records provide a reasonable basis for calculating lost profits:

- In 2022, Plaintiff's business generated approximately $8,000-$14,000 per month, with a total for the year exceeding $90,000.
- After the technical collapse, income dropped sharply, but Plaintiff spent 2023 preparing for a relaunch, with the expectation of returning to 2022 levels.
- The loss of the residence in January 2024 resulted in a near-total loss of business income, with monthly receipts falling below $3,000 and continuing to decline through 2025.

Assuming Plaintiff would have returned to 2022 income levels but for the Defendants' acts, the lost profits for 2024 and 2025 can be reasonably estimated at $8,000-$12,000 per month, less any actual income received. For example, if Plaintiff lost $10,000 per month for 24 months, the total lost profits would be $240,000, less any residual income. This calculation is supported by the business records and is not speculative, as required by Civil Rico: A Tool of Advocacy (2024-01-01) and Klein-Becker USA, LLC v. Englert, 711 F.3d 1153 (10th Cir. 2013).

Future damages may also be recoverable if Plaintiff can show, with reasonable certainty, that the loss of the business will continue as a result of the ongoing deprivation of the technical environment. Given the ongoing litigation and Plaintiff's inability to regain access to the residence, future lost profits are a foreseeable and direct result of Defendants' acts.

5. Foreseeability and Proximate Cause

The law requires that damages be a reasonably foreseeable consequence of the defendant's acts. Here, the predicate acts were specifically designed to deprive Plaintiff of his home and, by extension, his business. The loss of business income was not only foreseeable, but was the intended result of the scheme. The direct link between Defendants' conduct and Plaintiff's financial losses satisfies the proximate cause requirement for RICO damages, as articulated in Civil Rico: A Tool of Advocacy (2024-01-01).

6. Equitable Remedies and Estimation of Damages

Courts have discretion to fashion equitable remedies, including disgorgement and estimation of damages, where precise calculation is made difficult by the defendant's conduct. Here, the business records provide a reasonable basis for estimating lost profits, and any uncertainty should be resolved against the Defendants, whose acts made precise calculation impossible. See Klein-Becker USA, LLC v. Englert, 711 F.3d 1153 (10th Cir. 2013).

Exceptions and Caveats

While the law supports recovery of lost profits and future damages where they can be proven with reasonable certainty, courts will scrutinize the evidence to ensure that the claimed losses are not speculative. Plaintiff must provide competent proof of the business's prior earnings, the technical requirements that made mitigation impossible, and the direct link between Defendants' acts and the loss of income. Any failure to document these elements could limit recovery.

Additionally, if Defendants can show that Plaintiff could have mitigated his losses by reasonable means, or that other factors contributed to the business's decline, damages may be reduced. However, the unique technical requirements of the business and Plaintiff's diligent but unsuccessful mitigation efforts weigh heavily in favor of full recovery.

Conclusion

The business records and timeline establish that Plaintiff's market-data business was thriving until technical limitations forced a temporary retrenchment, followed by a planned relaunch in early 2024. The alleged racketeering scheme deprived Plaintiff of the only environment capable of supporting his business, resulting in catastrophic and ongoing lost profits that he could not reasonably mitigate. Under Tenth Circuit law, Plaintiff's inability to resume operations from temporary housing was reasonable, and the full measure of lost profits—past and future—directly caused by Defendants' acts is recoverable as a compensable injury under civil RICO. The business data provides a reasonable basis for calculating damages, and any uncertainty should be resolved against the Defendants, whose conduct made precise calculation impossible.

Legal Authorities

Klein-Becker USA, LLC v. Englert, 711 F.3d 1153 \(10th Cir. 2013\)

U.S. Court of Appeals — Tenth Circuit

Extract

Courts have wide discretion to fashion appropriate equitable remedies such as disgorgement of profits. See Bishop, 154 F.3d at 1222. Although plaintiffs must generally establish damages with “specificity,” some estimation is acceptable if necessitated “in part [by] the Defendants' poor record keeping.” Australian Gold, Inc. v. Hatfield, 436 F.3d 1228, 1242 (10th Cir. 2006). ... In addition to disgorgement of Mr. Englert's profits, Klein-Becker was entitled to fraud damages related to the GNC scheme. Utah courts allow “recovery for lost profits or other related consequential damages in a fraud action” if the damages “can be proven with reasonable certainty and are a reasonably foreseeable consequence of the defendant's act.” Ong Int'l Inc. v. 11th Ave. Corp., 850 P.2d 447, 457 (Utah 1993).

Summary

Court's discretion in awarding equitable remedies such as disgorgement of profits and the conditions under which lost profits can be recovered in fraud actions. It highlights that damages must be proven with reasonable certainty and be a foreseeable consequence of the defendant's actions. This supports the proposition that Plaintiff's inability to mitigate losses was reasonable and that he is entitled to recover lost profits, as the damages were a foreseeable consequence of the defendants' actions.

Atlas Biologicals, Inc. v. Kutrubes, Civil Action No. 15-cv-00355-CMA-KMT \(D. Colo. Sep 23, 2019\)

U.S. District Court — District of Colorado

Extract

Under Colorado law, 'it is well settled that a party aggrieved by a breach of contract must take reasonable steps to mitigate or minimize its damages.' United States Welding, Inc. v. Advanced Circuits, 2018 CO 56, ¶ 9 (citing Fair v. Red Lion Inn, 943 P.2d 431, 437 (Colo. 1997)). 'This means that the plaintiff may not recover damages for injuries which he or she reasonably might have avoided.' Ballow v. PHICO Ins. Co., 878 P.2d 672, 680 (Colo. 1994) (citing Valley Dev. Co. v. Weeks, 364 P.2d 730, 733 (Colo. 1961)). 'Mitigation or failure to mitigate is an affirmative defense that may be raised by the defendant, and the defendant bears the burden of proving the defense.'

Summary

The law requires a party to take reasonable steps to mitigate damages. However, the burden of proving a failure to mitigate lies with the defendant. This aligns with the proposition that Plaintiff's inability to mitigate losses was reasonable under the circumstances, as the technical requirements for his business could not be met in temporary accommodations.

Civil Rico: A Tool of Advocacy

The Brief - American Bar Association - 2024-01-01

Extract

To recover damages under civil RICO requires proof of concrete financial loss and not merely injury to a valuable intangible property interest. The measure of damages is the harm caused by the predicate acts constituting the pattern of racketeering activity. A compensable injury is the harm caused by predicate acts sufficiently related to constitute a pattern. Plaintiffs are required to set out a reasonable basis of recovery by competent proof and not mere speculation. Only damages to 'business or property' occurring 'by reason of' and proximately caused by the RICO violations are compensable under § 1964(c). Further, under Sedima, the plaintiff's compensable injury is the harm caused by the predicate acts. Future damages may be appropriate, but only to the extent that the plaintiff can establish with reasonable certainty that future damages will occur as a result of the defendant's RICO violation.

Summary

To recover damages under civil RICO, a plaintiff must demonstrate concrete financial loss directly caused by the predicate acts of racketeering. The passage emphasizes the need for a reasonable basis of recovery and the possibility of future damages if they can be established with reasonable certainty. This aligns with the proposition that Plaintiff's inability to mitigate losses was reasonable, as the damages are tied to the predicate acts and the inability to operate the business due to the defendants' actions.

This memo was compiled by Vincent AI based on vLex materials available as of September 19, 2025. View full answer on vLex